

STUDENT

knew some or all of the perpetrators involved of students who were sexually harassed made a formal complaint know nothing or very little about where to go to make a complaint about sexual harassment know nothing or very little about where to seek support or assistance for harassment know nothing or very little about where to go to make a complaint about sexual assault know nothing or very little about where to seek support or assistance for assault students whose gender identity was not classified as female or male. Gender identity was derived using the 'two-step method' of cross-classifying responses to sex assigned the most impactful (or significant) incident they had experienced. This incident was self-identified by the student.